DIRECTORS AND STOCKHOLDERS GATHERING FOR FIGHT.

MCKELVIE AND WALKER EXPECTED TO 'SCRAP'

Lincoln, Neb., Man Passes "Short and Ugly" Word to Poland China Journal Editor in Final Shot.

Maryville will probably have fireworks on the 15th of July to make up for those she did not have on the 4th. The election in the Standard Poland China Record association ordered by the Nodaway county circuit court will begin tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

All indications point to a hot and bitter fight. Judge Charles H. Mayer, who make the order as a compromise in a suit brought by W. H. Gilbert and F. P. Robinson to oust the officers and directors, will return and the election will be held as a part of court. It will be in the circuit court room and open to the public.

Judge Mayer will also dispose of a number of criminal and equity cases as a part of the special session of court. The Poland China special election will be held like all others, with President H. P. Walter of Effingham, Kan., presiding. Judge Mayer will sit at the president's desk merely in an advisory capacity.

The nine directors under fire and Secretary Ray Davis will resign tomorrow morning according to the terms of the compromise. The new election will then be held. A strenuous campaign has been made on all sides as the matter of consolidation with the American Record association is involved in the result.

Many men are already here and it is possible that a record attendance of stockholders may be present. About eighty-five were here for the annual meeting last January. It is certain that a record would result if it were not such a busy time for the farmers.

All sides are claiming victory. The McKelvies of Nebraska assert that they have 200 proxies. Gilbert and Robinson have more than a hundred. George Woodworth, secretary for twenty-two years, has a large number. Certain it is that a battle royal will be staged in Maryville tomorrow.

"Walker Lied," Says McKelvie.

The latest literature issued by H. C. McKelvie of Lincoln, Neb., passes the short and ugly word to H. C. Walker for a statement in the Poland China Journal of July 10. The editor says that a threat has been made to "label" all who work for consolidation.

What Mr. McKelvie did say in his postcard was that all would be labeled who were trying to wreck the Standard by "flocking" to the American. He made this statement because a director in the presence of a witness said that Secretary McFadden of the American had made this proposition. Further proof of this has been received from such a clause in a Davis letter to Directors Shattuck and Meese.

Mr. McKelvie also goes on to say in his letter mailed to every stockholder that if they want to know for sure that he thinks that Walker is a real liar, just let them come to the election in Maryville July 15, which is tomorrow. Truly, appearances are that there will be a real hot time in this town tomorrow.

Considerable space in the letter is given to the fact that Editor Walker refused to print a communication against consolidation which was

BEAUTIFUL SCENES HERE

None Prettier Than From Bluffs Southeast of Elmo Across Nodaway Valley Bottoms.

(By Vernon Nash.)

We hear a great deal about the scenic beauties of the Blue Ridge hills in Virginia, of the lower Hudson, of the wonderful views along the Rhine and even of our own White river country in the Ozarks. I have not seen the last two named. I have seen the first two.

And I wish to jot it down here in all seriousness that I have been impressed as I stood upon several hills in Nodaway county and looked out across the valleys of the Platte, the 102 and the Nodaway rivers, that few places present a more beautiful scene than these if we were just prepared by distance from home, reputation or some other enchantment to get the right perspective.

I saw one of the most striking of these scenes as I stood on a point several miles southeast of Elmo and looked out east across the valley of the Nodaway, with the evening sun at my back. Slightly to the north was Clearmont, with Burlington Junction nestling among the maples several miles to the south.

Between were the acres and acres of corn and wheat and oats and hay with the vista delightfully broken at intervals by white farmhouses and barns. Many a resident of Nodaway county would "rave" over such a sight if it were a few miles above Tintern Abbey or if he or she could stand upon the rock of "Die Lorelie" and gaze out upon it. "See America First" ought not to be confined to the west and the national parks. Why can't we see our own homes as they should be seen?

Elmo, Too, Set Upon Hill.

But to get back to the trip. I was pleased with my first glimpse of Elmo for it is a city set upon a hill in a good Biblical way. Perhaps the only objection might be that every business man seems to be above his neighbor.

Starting with the Farmers and Merchants bank and the Elmo Register office, we found that Editor Wood and Cashier Rolla Alexander were just a little above every one else and that they grade down a step or two for the full length of the street to the Wabash station and the hotel. That town seems to be fond of cement block buildings, having an unusual number of such structures on Main street.

Elmo is rather behind this year, however, in the matter of new buildings. Charles Lamar is raising the foundation of his home and making a new addition to it and that is about all the contractors can find to do there except for the new addition to the school building. The citizens are rather proud that their bond election for the schoolrooms passed unanimously when it was necessary to vote a second time, although only forty took the trouble to go to the polls.

A new band stand has been finished this summer, also, and Elmo is in the class of the towns which have weekly concerts. I met L. W. James, who is just sporting a new Ford delivered that day through Pence & Hornbuckle of Clearmont. The Tuesday I was there was a good cattle day, five loads being sent out by George Huff and the Hamilton buyers. On the way out of town, we noted a fine bunch of feeder

I. B. WILLIAMS WRITES OF CAMP EXPERIENCES AT LAREDO.

CAUGHT IN TEXAS RAINS

Dipped Feet in Rio Grande While Both Eyes Watched the Mexican Bank Carefully.

Headquarters Co. 4, Mo. Inf. Band, Laredo, Texas, July 10.—This morning marks our fifth day in camp and we are getting down to regular army routine life. The days prior have been given over to getting our tents in "army" order and since Saturday night's storm, fixing them to meet the Texas rain.

Speaking of rains, few Missouri or other eastern states have little conception of what a real rain storm is.

Just Wind-Storm Sky.

About 8 o'clock William Grammer and I went to the Red Cross headquarters, about one-half mile up town, for some distilled water and the sky didn't seem overly threatening — just something like a Missouri wind-storm sky. We had ten canteens, and hundreds of boys were there besides ourselves.

We managed to get fairly close to a tub where a soldier was assisting a Red Cross nurse in filling drinking cups and canteens. Said soldier boy began to tire of his job and I said I would relieve him. He accepted my suggestion and that seemed to be the only solution of getting water that evening.

Bill stood near my left and about every other canteen I filled was Bill's. That may seem a little selfish but the first thing a soldier must learn is the art of self-preservation and the next thing to aid his comrade.

And Then a Texas Rain.

It was about 9 o'clock when we left for camp and we noticed that the clouds were darker and floating very low and the wind had increased in velocity. We hadn't gone six blocks before the rain began to fall. It didn't begin like it does in Missouri, but after about twenty drops had fallen the water was coming down in sheets.

We stopped in at a couple of stores and I was for staying until the rain was over, but Bill insisted on returning, thinking it wouldn't rain much harder. We hadn't gone two blocks before we were completely drenched. One couldn't see a block ahead. The wind nearly carried us off our feet at times and the lightning was blinding. Very little thundering was heard.

When I got to my tent I found Spargur and Morrison sitting on the side wall holding it to the ridge of the ditch to keep the wind from getting under the tent. As I entered I discovered the water almost up to my knees. They were dozing when the storm broke but didn't think much of it, but were soon brought to a realization of what was taking place.

They managed to get most of the paraphernalia in the dry. The rain ceased after three quarters of an hour duration, just as quickly as it had begun. Sergeant Ridge made a tour of inspection after the storm had passed and as Spargur and I had no cots, we were taken up to headquarters and spent a "pleasant" night on boards.

Extra guards were stationed during the night and two companies were given ammunition. Such a night offered splendid opportunities for any movement the bandits might care to execute. As there seems to be little trouble from the bandits from this point the camp slumbered peacefully after making itself comfortable as possible.

Seven truck loads of regulars were reported passing through here during the night to the west of us where a raid was expected. With the coming of daylight the news reached here that three cowboys had put forty Mexicans to flight and killed fourteen.

Thought He Saw "Greasers.

E. L. Howard, who is taking George Crowson's place with the Tribune let his immagination get away with him, for sometime during the night he took a "peek" outside and in a flash of lightning he thought he saw two Mex-

CAUGHT 3 DRIVERS

ALL GUILTY OF HAVING DARK TAIL LIGHTS ON CAR.

KINNAIRD ON 2 COUNTS

Manager Saunders of Serum Company and Henry Pierpoint Arrested—Officials to Enforce Laws.

Three auto arrests were made last night by the city officers as the beginning of the campaign for the enforcement of the law regarding the driving of cars. All were for not having the tail light on. Prof. R. A. Kinnaird, Manager Saunders of the Independent Serum company, and Henry Pierpoint were the guilty parties.

Mr. Kinnaird, who is head of the agricultural department of the Normal, was fined on two counts for a total of $22.50 as he was taken up twice. Chief John Shonley warned him at 9 o'clock when he was first seen but he continued to ride around as the light was an electric one and could not be fixed. Night Marshal Frank Craig arrested him at 11 o'clock.

The car driven by Kinnaird belongs to John T. Wells. Mr. Saunders was ill and not able to appear in court. W. Y. Cox appeared and gave personal surety that he would appear as soon as possible. Mr. Pierpoint was represented by John Dawson and the case was argued by the attorneys.

The facts are undisputed on either side. Mr. Pierpoint's car was standing in front of Eversole's last night at 8 o'clock. He lighted the tail light and started south. At the bank corner he was stopped by Craig as the light was out. The contention of the defense is that the law is one of intentions and that a man should not be prosecuted in such a case.

Mr. Pierpoint's trial was continued over until tomorrow to enable the attorneys to look up the authorities in the case. It is expected that the decision will have an important bearing on other cases. Witnesses beside Mr. Pierpoint can swear that he lighted the tail light which went out in fifty feet but the objection of the prosecution is that ignorance will always be the defense if it is permitted.

City and state officials are co-operating in an effort to stop all violations, particularly those of speeding, throwing the cut-out open. A warning was published for three days this week in this paper before the action began. Reasonableness will be used but the officials are determined to stop the flagrant violations of automobile laws.

The city attorney, George Pat Wright, later advised Mayor A. S. Robey that Professor Kinnaird could be held only on one charge, and the other was dismissed. His fine stands, therefore, at $11.10.

CATCH FISH BY THE TON

FIVE QUITMAN MEN MAKE HUGE HAUL.

Game Comes Down With Higher Water in Nodaway River—The Largest Weighed 65 Pounds.

If the fish in the Nodaway river know "which side their bread is buttered on" they will keep clear of the vicinity of Quitman. For a number of Quitman fisherman are now catching fish by the ton. The rain yesterday caused the fish to come downstream and the six Quitman fishermen who enered the limelight last week when they landed a "sixty-five pounder" were busy all day catching and distributing fish.

The largest fish caught yesterday by these fishermen was sixty-five pounds and the next five weighed eighty pounds. As a result of their skill, Quitman is enjoying the delight of catfish for breakfast, dinner and supper. And it's Friday, too.

The members of this famous fishing sextette are Joe, Frank and Tom Montgomery, Loyd and John Money and Joe Carden.

The breaking down of a filter in the water plant made it necessary to turn some water into the mains too soon. As a result it smells and tastes stale. J. H. Martin, superintendent, reports that it is not impure and that it will be flushed out of the remaining mains as rapidly as possible.

RAIN ANNIVERSARY

JUST A YEAR AGO TODAY 6.7 INCHES FELL HERE.

SO 1.3 IN. FALLS TODAY

Considerable Damage From Wind and Lightning Over County Yesterday Afternoon and Night.

It was almost certain to rain today. This is July 14. Any one who was in Nodaway county last year upon that date will always remember the 6.7 inches of rain which fell on that July day. The rain today totaled 1.3 at noon today. Only .75 of an inch had fallen at 7 o'clock this morning from the time the wind and rain storm broke about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The temperature never got above the 97 mark yesterday, as the storm lowered the heat. Although much lower today, the steamy atmosphere following the rain is disagreeable. Farmers are rejoicing, as the corn needed the moisture, although it is probable that hundreds of acres of hay was down.

It was just a year ago today, too, that Maryville began to be isolated from the outside world. A mile of track on the Burlington was out between here and Pickering. No trains could be run over the Wabash, either. It was one of the largest rainfalls ever recorded in this country.

The storm last night was accompanied by considerable lightning. The barn on the property of Henry Shell in the northeast part of Wilcox was destroyed yesterday evening. The place is occupied by Mrs. Walter Borman, who lost three tons of hay, ten geese, two sets of harness and a new lister. The barn was completely destroyed and no insurance was carried.

A silo was blown over on the farm of Wayne Davidson living three miles east of Arkoe.

Trees and crops were damaged somewhat by wind in that section. George Gill of Burlington Junction lost two cows by lightning.

NOW GUY NORRIS CAN'T COME

Maryville School Board Qualified as "Unluckiest"—Miss Rooker Writes That She Will Return.

The Maryville board of education has still another reason for believing that they are the unluckiest board ever elected. Still another teacher refuses the place after being elected. Guy Norris of Charleston, Ill., has signed a contract for a school nearer his home town in Illinois and sent back his contract unsigned. He was elected coach and teacher of manual training.

J. R. Brink, president of the board, has received a letter from Miss Mary Rooker, teacher of mathematics, saying that she will return to the Maryville high school next year.

Don't Believe Trevino Report.

Washington, July 14.—War department officials refused to credit the unofficial report that General Trevino is planning a break with Carranza and is to be the head of a new revolution aided by Villa. It is declared General Pershing would have reported such rumors if there was any possibility of their being true.

Villa Demands Surrender.

London, July 14.—It is officially announced that the British on the Somme front have pierced the line of German defense over a front of four miles wide. It is one of the severest blows the British have struck since the offensive opened.

French Make No Drives.

Paris, July 14.—Although there were powerful artillery duels on the Somme and Verdun fronts last night no infantry actions are reported by the French war office in their communique today. Its allusion to Somme front refers only to the section held by the British.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

To the Democratic voters of the first senatorial district of Missouri: Since announcing my candidacy for senator on the Democratic ticket from this district, I have been called with the national guard of this state into the country's service by President Wilson.

I am rendering this service willingly because it is the duty that every good citizen should be glad and willing to perform. I cannot say how long I will be away. I feel, however, that we will return to our home station before election, and certainly before the next legislature meets.

I must trust my candidacy to my friends and the Democratic voters of the district, and I pledge to them that if they nominate and elect me to this important position, that I shall be glad to render the same prompt service to their interests in the state that I am now rendering to our country.

W. R. LITTELL,
Capt. 4th Mo. Infantry, Candidate for State Senator.

The St. Joseph News-Press, in what it terms the "first guess" on the congressional race in this district, predicts that Representative Booher and B. Raleigh Martin will run "neck and neck" in Buchanan county, with ... receiving a considerable vote.

an county by a large majority in 1912, it would seem that he is not nearly so strong there now in the opinion of the News-Press.

The followers of Secretary of State Con Roach believe that a man who can feed and clothe fourteen children has enough business ability to make a good governor of Missouri.

In past elections the Republicans have urged the people to support them and be rewarded with a full dinner pail. In 1908 they urged the people to let well enough alone. We have now not only a full dinner pail, but one that holds a double portion. Will our Republican friends join us now in letting "well enough alone"?

The New York Herald, a Republican newspaper, issues the following friendly warning:

"Handshaking and pleasant words are not sufficient to win for Mr. Hughes. Ineffectiveness, no matter how well meaning, never yet succeeded in campaign management.

"Silence was all right when silence was justified, but Mr. Hughes can not much longer remain silent concerning the things about which the American people are thinking. They want real and tangible assurance that the election of Mr. Hughes will give to the country efficient government."

THE RECOVERY OF FRANCE.

The industrial recovery of France, as indicated in the foreign trade statistics, continues to be most marked.

The value of French merchandise shipped to the United States during the 11-months period ending with May for the three years preceding the war was about $122,000,000. In 1915 this dropped to $71,0000,000, a loss of 42 per cent.

For the current year it has increased to $91,000,000 and the import trade from France is now larger than ever before, showing a gain for May last of a clear 20 per cent over the May before the war and a still larger gain over the May of the year preceding.—St. Louis Republic.

mailed to them in time for the February 10 issue. The next that was heard of the article was when Secretary Ray Davis appeared in Fairfield with Directors Shattuck and Meese in an effort to get Sam McKelvie to retract or modify the article. We quote H. C. MceKlvie:

"Father then rewrote the article and sent it to the Journal and again it was refused. Then I published it in slip form and mailed it to all the stockholders. It then appeared in the Journal with an answer by Editor Walker. His comment was infantile and his conduct in regard to turning that article over to a committee opposing it and his method of attack upon it was the grossest violation of publishing ethics that I have ever seen.

"The lines are clearly drawn now between me and Mr. Walker, and I take absolute pleasure in saying that Mr. Walker lied—lied deliberately and did the one thing that the livestock press is free from, namely, devoted the use of his columns to the use and expression of a deliberate and dirty lie.

steers in the pasture of Charles Lamar.

New Holiness Church Seen.

Nothing of interest was noted then until we reached the new Holiness church at Possum Walk. It was built directly across the road from the entrance to the Lamar Station cemetery. The church is a nice little structure although somewhat unfinished yet. It has not been painted but has been dedicated and is being used.

At the home of Mrs. James Lamar, known widely in that section as "grandma," we saw an unusually large number of chickens, all pure-bred Plymouth Rocks. A few miles further on our way to Dawson we stopped for a drink at the home of Earl Brown. He is specially proud of his well, having a deep one on the top of a hill upon which his home is placed.

Mr. Brown, like almost all the rest, was busy getting his hay into the barns. He reports a fine crop of corn upon his 180 acres but has had trouble getting help in caring for his crops. Like Charles Suttle, he is a great believer in a farmer's reading and takes an unusually large number of papers and magazines.

Red Dock Weeds Thick.

At Dawson I noticed that it is not Dawson but Dawsonville according to the Wabash, which has that name upon the station. I also noted around this little place several bad patches of red dock, a most "pesky" weed, against which the state board of agriculture has been sending out many warnings recently. A trip over the county should convince any one that the warning is well in order.

The new home of Mr. and Mrs. James Messbarger was noted a mile and a half west of Burlington Junction. The couple were married this spring, the bridegroom having already built the new home to which to take his bride. They were recently surprised by a large party of Parnell friends who motored over to spend Sunday with them.

"Welcome to Burlington Junction. Please slow down to ten miles an hour" says a sign which greets you no matter upon what road you enter that city. It seems an admirable blending of hospitality and courtesy with a warning of the speed limit of the town.

Coming back through Wilcox something new was seen in the shape of a blacksmith shop just opened by William Howard, formerly of Corning, Ia. He has moved his family to Wilcox and reports a good business for a beginning. There has not been a shop in Wilcox for several months.

Several Farm Homes Named.

Some of the farmers and farmers' wives living in Nodaway evidently realize the beauty of the county and have shown their appreciation by naming their farms and giving them a distinctive personality. Three such were seen on the Tuesday trip.

They were "Fairview," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Behm between Hopkins and Clearmont; "Pleasant View," on the William Linebaugh place where Mr. and Mrs. James Roberts live; "Sunny Slope," farm home of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Messbarger. That Sunny Slope is a fine name for winter but it sounded uncomfortable on the warmest day in the year. Some one suggested a double name and the use of "Shady Slope" in summer.

Some one back in the early days must have started a fad in Nodaway county of running a row of maple shade trees around the house and barn and garden. At any rate a large number of the farm homes are thus surrounded. It looks nice in a way but one imagines that it shuts off the breeze badly in summer.

And now the fine rain has come and made a trip today impossible. I'm not sorry, for the rain was needed and welcomed all around. But I am anxious to get out and see some more of the "First County in Missouri."

NEWS FROM ALL Northwest Missouri

Just one week after arriving from Arkansas to visit his grandparents, near Albany, Vodra Marrs, aged 17, was drowned while bathing in Grand river. By a sad coincidence his only brother was drowned at about the same age at Little Rock, Ark., four years ago.

Grant City's churches have joined in making arrangements for a union revival to begin July 20.

The body found in the river at Nodaway was finally identified at Savannah, Friday, as that of Miss Roxie Groves of Wahoo, Neb., and her drowning is supposed to have been suicidal because of despondency over a love affair.

The Missionary Conference will open at Tarkio on July 21. Already delegates from as far away as Idaho and Pennsylvania have engaged rooms for their stay in Tarkio during the conference.

In the recent true story contest of the Chicago Herald, Prof. J. Vallance Brown of Tarkio was one of the winners, with the story entitled "The Cloven Hoof," published June 30. His prize consists of a free trip to Glacier National park.

The Liberty Tribune says: "For the second time in history a Clay county company of soldiers has left for Mexico. The first was in 1846, seventy years ago last month, and the second was on Tuesday of this week, when seventy-three of our boys marched away. Of the first company only one man, Captain John Shouse, of Washington township, is living.

With prices of all sorts of things soaring skyward, thieves are directing their covetous efforts toward new kinds of plunder. Two men were arrested in Grundy county last week charged with stealing some fleeces of wool.

Dr. J. G. Scott, the oldest practitioner in Mercer county, died last week at Princeton. He had practiced medicine in that county forty-five years.

Trenton was recently stirred with excitement by a visit from a portion of the Second Connecticut infantry. They remained in Trenton only an hour, finding it a welcome chance to stretch their legs after four days of riding on the train en route for the Mexican border.

Grant City boosters have submitted a proposition to the Burlington railway company looking to the building of a new depot and improvement of the station grounds. The amount which the railway company is asked to expend is about $6,000; and in connection with this work the local boosters promise to buy adjacent grounds and lease them to the railway company for a long period of years to be used as a public park.

Bethany's oldest citizen is Mrs. Nettie Travis Gillespie, aged 96 years. She has lived in Harrison county for seventy-six years, and her oldest son served in the Civil war with a Harrison county company. She has one daughter, ten grandchildren and thirty great-grandchildren.

At a neighborhood meeting at a Harrison county schoolhouse, last week $400 was raised to improve a portion of the main road between Eagleville and Allendale. A few such meetings as this along the line will put that 12-mile stretch of road in good shape.

A small bundle of timothy, six feet high, was sent last week from Harrison county back to Tennessee as an average Missouri product.

Since Clay county carried their $1,250,000 rock road bond issue, adjoining counties are adopting "On to Clay County" as their road improvement slogan. Lathrop boosters in Clinton county have made the first move, effecting a permanent organization building a hard surfaced road from Lathrop to the Clay county line at Holt, joining there with the Clay county rock road.

A Norbone farm wife likes so well to raise chicks that she says she could spend her entire time at it. As it is, using only the time she can spare from her household duties, this woman, whose name in Mrs. Ella Buster, has 1,300 chicks to show for this spring's work.

There's no accounting for tastes. A Burkesville hen has adopted a litter of pigs, in another part of the state a poodle is nursing four little kittens, somewhere else under the Richmond Missourian's eagle eye a cat is scratching for a brood of little chicks, while close to Richmond a man has a goat that chews the rag, and Squire Goalder has a $500 colt which likes the taste of bridle reins, stirrup leathers and driving gloves.

A bursting emery wheel caused the death of Phillip Smith at Chillicothe last Thursday when he was grinding the blade of a road grader. Flying fragments of the wheel crushed the man's skull.

In the office of the Richmond Missourian is a relic of 1865, a clevis made that year by a local blacksmith and used for the lead yoke of oxen on an emigrant wagon that went to California. Of the large party, which accompanied the clevis on its six months trip across plain and mountain fifty years ago, only three persons are now living.

A Maysville woman, Mrs. T. B. Hobbs, has probably the record drove of young turkeys for this part of the state, for she has 360 of them, all doing nicely. She made a record hatch this spring with a 75-egg incubator, bringing off seventy-five young turks at a single hatch.

The first number of the Missouri Writers Guild News, a new magazine devoted to the interests of Missouri writers and newspaper men contains some news with reference to the success of a Northwest Missouri writer, J. Breckenridge Ellis of Plattsburg. It states that his story, "Frau," has been dramatized and will be produced in Rochester and Detroit this month.

The Tarkio Avalanche reports the discovery of a corrugated snake. The wife of the foreman on the Hanna ranch near Tarkio complained to Mr. Hanna that something was stealing her eggs. After a search over the premises, Mr. Hanna found a bull snake of immense size and its corrugated appearance led to an examination which showed that it had just swallowed twenty-one eggs.

More than sixty Livingston and Grundy county farmers have organized a cavalry troop for service in the Mexican trouble. Ed Morris of North Livingston county is the captain, and has already obtained commissions and uniforms for the company, which will be known as Company C, Second Missouri cavalry.

Platte City Argus: Clinton county gets along with 30c per hundred dollars for all county purposes, outside of her roads and schools. Platte county needs 35c. With less taxes collected from her people, Clinton county spends 35c per hundred on her roads; Platte county only 30c. Platte county has eleven saloons. Clinton county has none.

Instead of going to a distant summer resort for their vacations, six families near Unionville are building a beautiful hollow tile bungalow in a wooded pasture, near their homes, and are laying out tennis and croquet grounds. In this home-made summer resort, these families by turns or in groups will enjoy their outings.

The Mound City electric light plant and transmission lines were sold last week to the Associated Engineering Company of Denver and Colorado Springs, and the Liggett-Hitchborn Company of Boston.

icans lying a few yards away in front of his tent. He went to one of the head sergeants and wanted to know how to inform the guard without awakening the camp. In all probability he saw an oblong piece of ground surrounded by water.

Several of us took a chill and suffered with fever yesterday but are doing allright today. We are all of one opinion in preferring a Missouri rain to one in Texas. Inhabitants here say that this was the first rainfall here in fourteen months.

We spent the Fourth in waiting for our train in Nevada, which finally arrived at 2:30 o'clock and we were under way for the border by 4:15 o'clock.

The boys thought that the heat there was bad, but Missouri has nothing on Texas in that regard. Fort Scott was the first stop and then only for a few minutes. We arrived at Parsons, Kan., about 6:45 o'clock, and there the officers took mess and the boys made the acquaintance of the fair ones and left their addresses for cards. Parsons is a pretty town and seems to be enterprising.

When we awoke in the morning about 10 o'clock, we were just leaving Dennison, Texas, which is just about four miles over the line. At Dallas we stopped from 10 to 11 o'clock and detrained. This was the only time we detrained on the trip. The town the boys won't forget very soon is Waco. There the Red Cross gave us sandwiches and distilled water.

Had First Real Military Life.

When we left Austin at 8:30 p. m., the train took on more of the appearance of a military train. Each coach furnished two guards and they were on duty two hours. At Austin a Mexican slipped by a guard and when found was in the officers' coach. When questioned he said that he wanted to go to San Antonio. He was turned over to the civil authorities.

Spargur and I went on duty at 9 o'clock. Our orders were strict and we were told that we were the same as in a hostile country. Several reports were made of attempts to poison our water. The bridges along the line were under guards. We were relieved by King and Dressler at 11 o'clock just before we reached San Antonio.

When we awoke next morning all we could see was cactus and sage brush dying trees, and red sand. The trees were very tall. I should judge the tallest were not over twelve or fourteen feet. They have the appearance of thorns.

A wagon road follows the railroad all the way, and here and there a side road branches off, but is soon lost in the cactus.

The cactus is bush-like, and the branches are like chains, the links being flat and thin and oval in shape with the needles for a border decoration.

At Webb, a whistle station with about a dozen houses we saw the grave of one of Carranza's generals who made a raid a short time ago. A short way south of his grave was another one.

Ha! Ha! But It's Provoking.

If it wasn't so provoking, newspaper workers could remain highly amused all the time at the inability of readers to read everything just exactly as it is in the print. The latest example is that of our article concerning the fight in the Poland-China association.

Several paragraphs from a letter of Secretary Davis are quoted. One of them does not speak kindly of one W. H. Gilbert. And in spite of the fact that the item had quotation marks around it and that every reader of The Democrat-Forum ought to know that expressions of opinion go into the editorial column and not in a news article—in spite of all the labels, many persist in thinking that this paper said such things about our fellow-printer.

Truly, it is to laugh!

Just at this time of the year the fellows from school and college are having the delightful experience of breaking into hard labor without being hardened to the work. One such was working recently in the excavating for a cellar. He tells it this way:

Three From Hopkins Journal.

Wilson Jones, who had been a guest for several weeks in the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. B. Griffith, returned to Kansas last week. He is a strong Republican and a great admirer of Candidate Hughes, suggesting before he left that the Republicans of Hopkins township organize a Hughes and Fairbanks club and that each member grow a full beard.

A self-acting sofa has been invented. If properly wound up it will begin to ring a warning bell just before 10 o'clock. At one minute past 10:00 it splits, and while one-half carries the daughter upstairs, the other half kicks the young man out the door.—Grant City Times.

Mercy sakes alive, those Grant City young people must be quite different from those in other towns. In Hopkins, for instance, such a sofa would not meet the ends for which it is intended. Here the young people both sit on the same end of the sofa, and at 10:01 the pair would either be carried upstairs together or kicked out of the door—just a matter of which end of the sofa they might be occupying.

Hopkins has some good debaters who are always on the watch out for a subject, so here is one that might prove very interesting as well as edifying: "Why do old bachelors appear to be happier than old maids." With this subject and an admission of 15 cents the largest audience room in the town can be easily filled.

At a church entertainment in Wichita Sunday night a modest little maid mounted the platform to speak her "piece," and barely got started before she forgot it. She started over several times, getting stalled on each attempt. A small boy on the front row saw the trouble at once, and it was a relief when he exclaimed, "She's killed her engine, she's killed her engine," for everybody laughed and no one could have heard her "piece" anyhow.

FLETCHER HIGHLY REGARDED IN NAVY

Has Won Praise For Movements In Mexican Waters.

MAN OF TACT AND ABILITY.

Many Months on Scene of Action Have Fitted Rear Admiral In Command of Fleet Division For Dealing With Perilous Situations.

Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher, exercising the supreme naval command in Mexican waters until Admiral Charles J. Badger was ordered south with the Atlantic fleet, is one of the ablest officers of the navy. Until recently it was generally understood that the officer who was to succeed Rear Admiral Charles J. Badger would be Rear Admiral Cameron McR. Winslow. Later, however, Winslow was ordered to command the Naval War college.

It was stated on high authority that the only thing that stood between Fletcher and the Atlantic fleet assignment is the possibility that it might be necessary to keep him in Mexican waters for many months to come, in which case even the appointment of a successor to Admiral Badger might be delayed or else Badger would be asked to retain command until Mexican conditions reached that point where it would be possible to assign Fletcher to the fleet flagship as commander in chief.

REAR ADMIRAL FRANK F. FLETCHER.

The fact that Admiral Fletcher was considered to stand the best chance for the Atlantic fleet command is another instance of the unexpected in naval affairs. Until he was ordered to Mexican waters many months ago his name had never been mentioned among the possible successors of Admiral Badger. But in Mexico Fletcher quickly grasped the situation and within a few weeks the newspapers began to print stories of the tact and ability of the man who was exercising what was admittedly the most important command held by any officer since the Spanish war.

The time came for Fletcher to be relieved and brought back to home waters, but so well had he handled the delicate situations that had arisen at Vera Cruz and Tampico that the navy department told him to stay, not caring to trust the command to an officer who might fail to live up to the standard that Fletcher had set. And so Fletcher has remained, switching his flag from ship to ship as each squadron sailed back home and a new squadron came to take its place.

Admiral Frank Friday Fletcher was born in Oskaloosa, Ia., Nov. 23, 1855 He entered the naval service as a cadet midshipman from the Fourth congressional district of Iowa Sept. 23, 1870, graduating from the Naval academy in June, 1875.

During the Spanish-American war he served as assistant chief of the bureau of ordnance from April 2, 1898, to July 7, 1898; on board the St. Louis from July 8, 1898, to July 18, 1898; in command of the Kanawha from July 19, 1898, to Oct. 6, 1898, and in command of the Eagle from Oct. 22, 1898, until after the close of the war.

He was promoted to commander on March 12, 1904, serving in that grade as inspector of ordnance in charge of the torpedo station from Nov. 10, 1904, to March 15, 1905; as chief of staff to commander in chief of Asiatic fleet from May 11, 1905, to November, 1905.

He was promoted to captain on May 15, 1908, serving in that grade in command of the Vermont from Nov. 9, 1908, to Feb. 25, 1910, and as aid to the secretary of the navy for division of material from March 16, 1910, to July 29, 1912.

He was promoted to rear admiral Oct. 17, 1911, serving in that grade in command of the Fourth division of the Atlantic fleet from Aug. 1, 1912, to Jan. 4, 1913; in command of the Second division of the Atlantic fleet from Jan. 4, 1912, to Nov. 6, 1913, and in command of the First division of the Atlantic fleet from Nov. 6, 1913, on which duty he is serving at the present time.

Fletcher is an inventive genius and one of the highest authorities on naval ordnance. He has invented a breech mechanism, a gun mount and other things.

DEWEY HEAD OF STRATEGY BOARD

His the Master Mind In Direction of War Moves.

VIGOROUS DESPITE HIS AGE.

Famous Hero of Manila Bay, Who Elevated American Navy In World's Eyes, Is In His Seventy-seventh Year—Splendid Record In Two Wars.

Although Admiral George Dewey figured comparatively little in the first news of the imbroglio with Mexico, it was not forgotten in Washington and elsewhere that he is the ranking officer of the entire navy, head of its general board and head of the board of strategy of the combined forces, army and navy, in virtue of his high rank. No army officer holds a higher title than major general and no other naval officer higher than rear admiral. The title of admiral is greatly in advance of either of these.

With the rank of admiral, conferred on Dewey for his splendid services at Manila in the Spanish-American war, he possesses the privilege of retaining his place, with all its honors and emoluments, until he dies. An admiral of the navy is not subject to retirement as are inferior officers.

Admiral Dewey is now in his seventy-seventh year. He was born at Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 26, 1837. Despite his age, he retains his mental and physical vigor. Reports of illness, common concerning men of his years, have been few about Admiral Dewey. He holds himself as erect as any of the younger officers of the navy. His step is quick, and his complexion is bright. His hair and mustache, however, have whitened since the days of the Spanish-American war, when his portrait was familiar in every American household as that of the "hero of Manila Bay" and when congress and the country paid him extraordinary honors.

His famous victory over the Spanish fleet of Admiral Montojo was gained on the morning of May 1, 1898. Before the outbreak of the war he held the rank of commodore and commanded the Asiatic squadron. His flagship was the cruiser Olympia, and among his other famous vessels was the cruiser Raleigh. His victory over the Spaniards was complete, and in the troublous times which followed in the Philippines Commodore Dewey won high praise from Americans and foreigners for his skill and tact in handling the difficult situations as they arose. He was made a full admiral on March 3, 1899.

George Dewey attended school in Montpelier and at Johnson, Vt., and in 1853 was admitted to Norwich university, Norwich, Vt. Through the influence of Senator Foote he obtained an appointment to the Naval academy, from which he was graduated with honor in 1858. The outbreak of the civil war saw him holding the commission of a lieutenant, and he was assigned to the steam sloop Mississippi of the west gulf squadron in the waters in which the American fleet now finds itself. Dewey was with Farragut through a great part of that famous commander's fighting.

In 1864-5 Dewey was attached to the north Atlantic blockading squadron and participated in the fighting at Fort Fisher. On March 3, 1865, he was commissioned lieutenant commander for his gallantry in the attacks on the fort. After the war his life pursued the general dull routine of service of a navy officer in time of peace, and he cruised in various parts of the world before attaining the rank of commodore and assignment to command of the Asiatic squadron.

Admiral Dewey is the third man to hold the rank in the United States navy, the others having been Porter and Farragut. By many authorities he is ranked with these two great naval commanders and with Nelson, Van Tromp and others who figure on the bright pages of the world's naval history. A British admiral wrote of him:

"The boldness of the American commander is beyond question. Henceforth he must be placed in the valhalla of great naval commanders. Nothing can detract from the dash and vigor of the American exploit or dim the glory which Dewey has shed upon the American navy. It may be bad for the world, for assuredly the American navy will never accept a subordinate place hereafter."

SECRETS OF SPACE

What Might Be Revealed if Nature Lifted the Veil.

WONDERS OF THE INVISIBLE.

Evidence That What We Call the Universe Is Only a Part of a Far Grander and Perhaps Infinite System of Suns and Worlds and Planets.

Men of science have found reasons for believing that there may be, far off in infinite space, other material systems besides the one visible to us. We seem to be able with modern telescopes to reach the boundaries or farthest limits of the stellar system to which our sun belongs.

It is found that with increase of distance the relative number of stars decreases until, in most directions at least, a point is reached beyond which virtually no more stars can be seen. Then, too, it has been found that the stellar system has a fairly definite shape—a fact which in itself implies boundaries. The shape is that of a vast spiral, with curving arms surrounding a central agglomeration. If you will imagine floating in the middle of the room where you sit a roughly globular swarm of bright particles, distributed with a fair degree of uniformity as to distance from one another, and then outside of the swarm surrounding it, but separated from it by a space which is nearly but not quite empty, an irregular spiral ring of similar shining particles, you will have before you a picture of one of the latest astronomical conceptions of the form of the visible universe.

The central swarm will represent the assemblage of stars of which our sun is a modest member, while the enveloping spiral will represent the immense system of the Milky way, whose stars are vastly more numerous than those composing the globular swarm. The stars of the Milky way are the most distant members of the entire system, which appears to be shut in all around by black space. Viewed from afar off in the ebon depths of that space, this universe of ours would resemble a phosphorescent jellyfish, with faintly sparkling tentacles, afloat in the sea of immensity.

This being so, the question naturally arises, May there not be, or must there not be, an indefinite number of other such systems scattered through the limitless expanse of space? That question would forever remain a matter of pure conjecture if we did not have certain very suggestive facts which seem to indicate that it ought to be answered in the affirmative.

The facts of which I speak are objects of visual observation. But that does not necessarily make them parts of the "visible universe," because they appear to be unconnected with it and to lie beyond its boundaries.

These objects are known as spiral nebulae. The photographs that have been made of them in the past few years are simply amazing. The forms of many are surprisingly like that which has been described above as characterizing the stellar system. They have central agglomerations with enveloping spirals. They have knots of light which recall the globular clusters of stars found in the visible universe, but they are so distant that no separate stars can be detected in them.

They look like masses of more or less condensed glowing gas, but the spectroscope shows that the light coming from them is not that which is characteristic of gaseous nebulae, but that which belongs to true stars. The influence is that these wonderful objects may actually be other universes lying out in the ocean of space beyond our shores.

This inference is strengthened by what we know of the distance of some of these objects. The utmost diameter of the great spiral of the Milky way probably does not exceed from 4,000 to 6,000 "parsecs," or from 800 to 1,200 million times the earth's distance from the sun. A parsec, which corresponds to a parallax of one second of arc, equals about 19,000,000,000,000 (nineteen trillion) miles. But some of the spiral nebulae appear to be at least 10,000 parsecs distant.

If that is so there exists between them and the outer frontiers of the visible universe a gap far broader than the entire diameter of that universe. It can hardly be supposed, then, that they are outlying parts of or attendants upon our universe, but it is much more reasonable to conclude that they are other universes constructed on a similar plan, but so far away that as viewed with our utmost visual powers, our mightiest telescopes, they are but gleaming specks! Perhaps the nearest of these strange objects is the Andromeda nebula, which, in a small telescope, looks like a faint spindle shaped wisp.—Garrett P. Serviss in New York Journal.

Happiness is that single and glorious thing which is the very light and sum of the whole animated universe, and where she is not it is better that nothing should be.—Colton.

ROBERTSON AT B. J. 25 YEARS

Attorney Occupies Same Office Rooms He Leased When He Came There at 26 Years Old.

Jesse F. Robertson has been in the practice of law in Burlington Junction for twenty-five years. The Post this week says:

Jesse was an ambitious youth of 26 years when he located in Burlington Junction, and began the practice of law. At that time there were but seven brick buildings on Main street, and most of the business was confined to the block now known as Wall street. The two lots now owned by the Northwestern bank and Corken Bros. had frame buildings on them at that time and both properties sold for $1,200. The young attorney had faith in the future of the town and bought considerable property from time to time, and the increase in its value has proven his judgment.

Today he occupies the same office rooms he leased when he came here a quarter of a century ago, and, the Post hopes, will occupy them twenty-five more and be as hale and hearty as he is this very day.

SOUVENIRS FOR BRIDES.

New York Suffragists Tell Each New Wife Power Vote Would Bring.

New York.—Little American flags and suffrage buttons were given out at the marriage license bureau to all the brides of the greater city recently by New York city suffragists. The demonstration took place just as the soldiers were called out to camp, and so many of the brides were tearful little war brides, to whom the American flags presented by the suffragists were peculiarly appropriate. With the flags and buttons each bride received a box of wedding cake tied with suffrage ribbon and a bride's leaflet advising each new wife of the power she might gain for husband and children if she had the vote.

The leaflet told of the good laws women have helped to gain in the twelve suffrage states for the protection of men, women and children. It ended with an appeal to every bride to join the suffrage movement, which is endeavoring to "extend the wife and mother influence throughout the state."

Chief Scully entered heartily into the plans of the suffragists and permitted them to trim up the marriage chapel in the municipal bureau with yellow flowers.

RIDES A FISH TO DEATH.

Hiram Also Keeps His Prize Despite State Game Wardens.

Appleton, Wis.—Riding a fish and killing it is not catching it. Such is the decision of the state game wardens in the case of Hiram Beveridge.

The water in the Fox river has been low of late, and Hiram saw a six foot sturgeon in a shallow pool below the John street dam. He tried to catch it by the tail, but failed. Then he jumped and landed on its back. It was worse than riding a bucking broncho, but he seized a stone when the fish was floundering in shallow water and beat it to death.

Hiram's knees were scraped raw and his legs cut, but he got seventy pounds of fish and furnished the basis for a new legal decision to ring down the ages.

Wit of Disraeli.

There is a story about Disraeli that is much like him and will give an idea of what he was at this time (1877). As he was leaving a house he asked some one to give him his arm down Piccadilly. The man, who must have been a person of some wit, said, "At such a time as this I should wish to be met by my creditors." "No," said Disraeli, "it is not at such times that your creditors meet you." Your creditors meet you when you are carrying a bundle."

There you have the literary quality of the man.—E. S. Nadal in Outlook.

"Man's a funny proposition!"

"What now?"

"When he reads a medical book he fancies he has every disease described, but let him read the work of a moralist and all the faults pointed out he sees not in himself, but in his neighbor."—Boston Transcript.

JUDGE LAMM COMING THURS

Republican Candidate for Governor to Speak Here and at Burlington Junction.

Judge Henry Lamm, a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, is to make two speeches in Nodaway county next Thursday. One will be at Burlington Junction at 2:30 o'clock and the other in Maryville at 7:30 o'clock. Judge Lamm will be accompanied to the city by former Congressman Frank B. Fulkerson of St. Joseph and Henry M. Beardsley of Kansas City.

The Republicans here are somewhat divided on governor, but there seem to be more of them for John Swanger of Sedalia for that position than any one else. Many of them are predicting that Swanger will carry this county over Charles D. Morris of St. Joseph. There is also some Lamm sentiment in the county. W. C. Pierce is reported as being favorable to his candidacy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carden and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rogers of St. Joseph, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mart Carden of Quitman returned to their homes yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Ellerton and daughter Thelma, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Johnson of Quitman, leave for their new home in Salida, Col., today. Their home was formerly in Kansas City.

ELECTING A PRESIDENT

13

HAYES.

More Votes For Tilden, but Hayes Elected In 1876.

AGAIN in the election of 1876 the candidate who received the smaller number of popular votes was elected president. Samuel J. Tilden of New York, Democrat, received 4,284,885 votes, and his Republican opponent, Rutherford B. Hayes of Ohio, received 4,033,950. The result of this election was in doubt for many days. Discrepancies in Louisiana changed one vote, and the result in the electoral college was: Hayes, 185; Tilden, 184. An electoral commission decided for Hayes. William A. Wheeler of New York was elected vice president.

James A. Garfield, Republican, defeated W. S. Hancock, Democrat, in 1880. Chester A. Arthur was elected vice president and after Garfield's assassination became president.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by any druggist under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.
